WM. Caldwell

Dedication

Mr. Caldwell once dropped a remark which explains in a few words his philosophy of life and tells why this edition of Cardinal is dedicated to him. "I have set as my aim in life," he said, "the making and keeping of as many friends as possible." How well he achieved this goal can be attested by all of us-teachers, pupils, patrons, and by all who come in contact with him in his daily round of duties. Always cheerful and optimistic, always tactful and considerate, always polite and courteous, always ready and willing to do any task which makes the way more pleasant for pupils or teachers, he has earned the respect and love of all of us. Our school days have been made more pleasant because of him; in faithfulness to duty and in his speech and actions, he set before all of us an example worthy of imitation. We extend to him an honor richly deserved in the dedication of this the fourth edition of our annual.
